

Retention table and further Details.

1. Introduction

- This document is the PPL/PHAL Records Review and Retention Schedule. It tells you in more detail about the type of personal data we hold about you, what we use it for, our legal grounds for doing so, who we share it with and how long we keep it. All agreed records reviews and retention details will be published in this document only.

2. Purpose of review and retention schedule

- All records created by PPL/PHAL be they electronic, paper or any other media must have a review and retention period assigned to them. This must cover them from creation through to final disposition. Electronic records also include any e-mail that is created and held by PPL/PHAL as evidence of a business activity.
- The review period specifies how long a record should initially be retained for before it is reviewed to decide whether it needs to be kept for justified further use, destroyed or is of public interest that it should be retained and available via the Ports archives.
- Reviewing records assists in the specific requirements to properly manage all records created in accordance with PPL/PHALs policies and legislation. Reviews ensure that records no longer required are properly destroyed. However, it is also used to prevent the premature destruction of records and to identify those records worthy of permanent preservation.
- The review period assigned depends on legal, financial or administrative reasons which is why there are differencing period lengths. Some records may need to be retained indefinitely because of legal requirements or historical value.
- Portland Port Police and Security will comply with GDPR and will keep any information for Crime Protection and Detection Purposes.
- The retention of unnecessary records may contravene legislation such as the Data Protection Regulation 2018, which could have serious financial and reputational consequences for PPL/PHAL and may well involve investigation by the Information Commissioners Office (ICO).
- PPL/PHAL will take regular reviews of data held and deal with in the appropriate manner.
